INTRODUCTORY.

As wood and wire are articles very necessary in the production of all modern and commercial sign work, and as RAISED WOOD LETTERS, scrolls, ornaments, turnings, carvings, etc., play a very attractive part in the making up of same, we are pleased to place before our patrons, and others interested in the sign trade, one of the most complete illustrated catalogues ever published.

Spanjer Bros. Wood Sign Material M'f'g's. established by Wm. H. Spanjer and Henry J. Spanjer, in Newark, N. J., in 1897. In 1899 the firm bought and took possession of the Newark Wood Letter Mfg. Co. and later, in 1901 we purchased the National Sign Material Co., of New York City, formerly the old and well-known Frantz Meyer establishment. Owing to the rapid increase in the Western trade, during the years of 1904 and 1905, our Chicago factory was put in operation by Henry J. Spanjer in July, 1906, and are pleased to state that same has been greatly appreciated by the trade west of the Ohio.

As it is known by the Trade, we have the largest, most modern and thoroughly equipped plant for this unique class of work, and give permanent employment to upward of fifty skilled mechanics, draughtsmen, etc., in this particular branch. We are also equipped to do, and are doing, an extensive business with the Trade in the line of Wood Novelties of all kinds, grill work, lock-cornered boxes, cabinets, book racks, frames, etc.

It will be seen by our patrons, who number several thousands, throughout the U. S., Canada and European countries, that a great majority of the articles shown in this catalogue are of new and original design, produced by an eye that has the work of the above mentioned thousands constantly before him. Our advantages have been as great as the time and thought spent in the endeavor to produce these modern, plain and ornamental designs, in the effort to satisfy all, or at least, a majority of those employed by, and making a business of, the sign making and painting art.

The expense and time in the production of a catalogue of this kind, will not be mentioned other than to say it is unusually great.

Beginning with the sketching, roughing out, and completing of the original designs. Then every article is reproduced in wood by an exact, mechanical and artistic hand. The band and scroll sawing is very difficult. The rounding and modeling by machine, and the hand carving, which requires one with a great deal of experience and an unusual amount of talent for this particular branch of work. Then the sanding and polishing by hand and machine. The photographing, engraving and printing which speaks well for itself, with the necessary clerical work, the postal revenue, your correct address, and you have in your possession one of the very necessary parts of your progressive business.

With hearty good wishes for mutual success, from

Sincerely yours,
SPANJER BROS.

Patterns for Casting Metal Signs

To the Trade

Adjoining page shows a cut of various styles of patterns for casting in Bronze, Brass, Copper, etc. Designs of this kind can be made up any size desired. We will be pleased to quote you prices on styles as shown, from our patterns, or preferably from designs submitted by you. The panels can be furnished to you separate or with the letters attached. Send small cut or full size drawing and we will be pleased to quote you prices.

We can also quote you prices on the plain sawed wood panels or tablets, which can be painted to imitate the metal signs. These are being used extensively, with the best of satisfaction, at a cost of less than one third the price of the metal signs.

Wire Signs

Adjoining pages show cut of wire signs, giving a few ideas of the various styles in which wire signs are made up, straight panel signs, projecting and swing signs. These signs can be used for single or double-face. Price on wire will be seen on preceding page. Letters, scrolls and ornaments are charged for extra. Prices on these materials may be obtained by referring to their respective pages in the front of catalogue.

Raised letters are fastened to the wire signs by ordinary blind staples, enclosing the wire and driven into the backs of letters.

The most consistent sign painters place the letters face down upon a bench or floor, then lay the wire face down upon them, and fasten letters as stated above.

It is considered advisable to do your gilding and finishing after letters have been fastened to the sign, thus insuring a neat job.

For double-faced signs, metal, zink or wood, panels must be fastened to the wire, and letters placed on same.

We can furnish signs complete, fastening letters, scrolls, mouldings, etc., at a very reasonable cost. Write for prices. State number, size, etc.

Wire Roof Signs

Large wood letters placed on wire background, known by the sign trade as Wire Roof Signs, are used extensively by many of the large and progressive manufacturers, wholesalers, and corporations throughout the metropolis, especially those whose factory or business site is visible to a public thoroughfare or railroad. These signs are known to be one of the best methods of advertising, and are economical as well as attractive and durable.

Wood Letters, when well painted, have proven to be just as durable, and more satisfactory, than the metal letters. Number eight or nine heavy galvanized wire is used in making up large signs, with from 1 inch to 1½ inch channel iron and capping, and the necessary center braces, bolts, screws, etc. The letters are manufactured from well seasoned white pine, varying from ⅞ inch to 1½ inches in thickness, well glued and dowelled. Same are made up plain sawed, rounded face or beveled edge. In many instances, where the letters are ordered from 4 feet to 10 feet in height, two and sometimes three thicknesses of ⅞ inch lumber are used, the grain of the lumber running crosswise, white leaded, nailed and screwed together.

The letters on the Singer Sewing Machine building, which are nine feet high, were furnished by us from three ply lumber, more than eleven years ago, and appear to be in prime condition today.

Letters are fastened to the wire by the use of heavy galvanized staples, driven in from the back. Where letters can be set up and fastened in the center of the roof as shown on page No. 90, they can be erected securely at little cost. The letters reading WOOD NOVELTIES have stood the severe winds for six years, with little, if any, attention, and are as substantial as when erected.

Write for Price on Large Letters

When requesting price, be sure to state style of letter, height, width and thickness of lumber desired. Also if the letters are to be made of one, two or three thicknesses of lumber, plain sawed, round face, round or beveled edge. See page No. 33 for bevels and rounds.

When ordering always give reading matter and size of space.

Boards and Letters M

Boards and Letters Manufactured by Our Western Factory

A Few of the More Practical Ways of Fastening Wood Letters to Sign Boards, Brick Walls, Iron Facures, Glass, Wire, etc.

No. 1. Shows the number and most appropriate place to put the finishing nails, when attaching letters to board signs.

No. 2. Shows the letter fastened to the sign by use of a screw from back of the sign. In this case letters are laid on the sign and outlined, then the holes are bored, and screws driven in from the back of the sign, into the letter. This same method is used for fastening letters, etc., to galvanized iron background, which are rapidly becoming a substitute for the heavy board signs, using a shorter screw, or heavier finishing nail. When the finishing nails are used, they are driven in from the face and clinched down on the back.

No. 3. Show about the size and angle of the finishing nail. One shows the nail left flush with the face of the letter, and the other shows the nail set and the hole puttied. It is thought quite advisable to leave the nail flush with the face of the letter.

No. 4. Shows the letter fastened to cement or iron facures, by small strips of galvanized or sheet iron, same being attached to the letter by the use of screws. The other end is fastened to the wall by screw or rivet. The face of the iron is then painted to correspond with the color of the background.

No. 5. Shows letters fastened to the wire by the use of ordinary blind staples. Heavy galvanized staples can be used for large letters.

No. 6. Shows letter fastened to brick wall or stone with the ordinary sign hold-fast.

No. 7. Shows large wood letters fastened to the wire by strips of galvanized iron. It is thought advisable to use this method when letters are very large. See pages 89 and 90 Roof Signs.

No. 8. Shows letters fastened to fine mesh screen. The letters are attached by using a little glue and a few very small black head tacks.

No. 9 and No. 10. Shows method of fastening large letters and wire signs to the roof.

No. 11. Shows the letters fastened to the brick or stone wall by strips of angle iron. The angle iron is first attached to the wall by screws or the ordinary sign hold fasts, then the letters are placed between and attached as cut shows.

Wood Letters Attached to Glass for Numerals, Office Doors, Show Windows, Etc.

Owing to the possibility of their originality, they are preferred to the glass, enamel or metal letters, and are attached to the glass in a similar manner.

The letters for glass work are made of hard wood, either birch or maple. They are hollowed out slightly on the backs and well oiled, varying in thickness from ¼ inch to ⅝ inch. The letters can be made from your own designs, or from our regular stock patterns at the same price.

Before attaching the letters to the glass, same should be well painted, and then allowed to dry thoroughly. If they are placed on windows which are frequently washed, it is advisable to coat them with a good quality of outside or mar varnish.

Dry white lead, mixed thoroughly with a medium drying varnish, equal to a soft putty, and be careful no lumps remain unmixed.

Directions for Making Cement.

Apply the cement to the letter, place same on the window, work it up and down pressing closely to exclude the air and secure a good adhesion.

Press the cement out so that the edges will be protected. If it is deemed necessary, when cement is firmly set, apply the varnish.
